What is Summer Learning?

Summer Learning is a fun way to keep your brain engaged over the summer break. Joining the Summer Learning Initiative is a positive step for your whole family! Research shows that reading at any age helps our brains, but it's especially important for kids to avoid "summer slide." Summer slide might sound like a fun activity on the playground... however, it's a loss of knowledge children can experience every summer break from school. While reading is very important, we understand that not everyone learns the same way. So, instead of only having reading as a choice to earn prizes, your child/teen has the option to do a project instead!

We encourage everyone to participate in the learning fun; parents, siblings, grandparents, aunts, and uncles. Make Summer Learning a family tradition!

This booklet has all of the information to prepare you for Summer Learning.

How to Track your Progress:

We are so happy you have chosen to participate in Summer Learning! Your child/teen has the opportunity to earn four prizes during the summer, which means they need to choose four goals. Your child/teen has the option to make reading goals, create a project goal, or do a little bit of both.

For prizes, your child/teen has the option of either choosing from our treasure box, or entering in a larger prize drawing occurring on August 3rd! They can collect their treasures throughout the summer, or collect all of them at the end of Summer Learning on August 2nd. If they would like to collect their prizes throughout the summer, we recommend collecting them every 2 weeks.

Sample Reading Goals:

- Participants can make a daily goal, choosing to read a certain number of pages or a certain amount of time each day.
- If your child/teen reads fast, they can make a goal of reading a certain number of books each week/two weeks.

Sample Project Goals:

- Make one big project or multiple small projects. Choose any topic, make a science project, an art project, or any other project. Time to show creativity! Once you have chosen a project, make a weekly goal to show your progress.

If you need help making a reading/project goal let Miss Christy or the front desk staff know!
